

The Hill

A complex collage of artistic and historical elements. At the top center is a bronze cherub-like figure holding a golden sun face with a human-like face. Below it is a scroll with Egyptian hieroglyphs. To the left, a white scroll with line drawings of ancient figures and symbols is partially unrolled. In the center, a gift is wrapped in silver paper with a textured pattern, tied with brown twine. To the right, another scroll with hieroglyphs is unrolled. At the bottom, there are two small glass spheres, one blue and one clear with a yellow interior. The background is dark, making the white and metallic elements stand out.

£1.75 where sold • Issue 206 • December 2001

Sharp shopping and fine dining – plus a case of wine to be won

Christmas unwrapped

Plus: architect Cezary Bednarski; Paddington's pastoral history; news and events

The magazine for Notting Hill, Holland Park, Bayswater, Kensington, South Kensington and Knightsbridge